

Servathon Day 2007
Volunteers from Local Gap Stores Help Wash SRVS' Vehicles
By Michelle Dennie

Saturday, April 21, Hands on Memphis hosted its 13th annual Servathon Day, benefiting local area non-profit agencies. Servathon is a single day committed to celebrating volunteerism and the power of teamwork and service. It brings together hundreds of volunteers from area businesses, schools, churches and neighborhoods to assist local non-profits with a variety of projects. Some of the projects the volunteers perform include painting, landscape work, organizing papers & clothes closets, general clean up and car washing.

SRVS was assigned 12 volunteers from local Gap Stores. These volunteers helped us wash and detail 20 of our service vehicles. They were full of energy and eagerly dedicated approximately 3 hours scrubbing and detailing SRVS' vans and cars. The weather was perfect, the volunteers were great and our service vehicles left Knight Arnold sparkling clean! Also on hand was Scott Evans, a member of SRVS board.

The best part of all is that SRVS was exposed to a new group of people that want to continue partnering with us – whether by volunteering their time, donating money or items, or simply spreading the good word about SRVS and the individuals we support.

Volunteering is a great way to build character and to give back to your community. To learn more about Hands on Memphis, Servathon, and/or area volunteer opportunities you can visit www.handsonmemphis.org.

SRVS' PR & Development department says thanks to all SRVS employees that helped make this day a great success!
